Year 5 Art - February 2024

This term, working with our resident artists, Year 5 explored the art of perspective and colour theory.

In this project, the children began by learning about perspective through sketchbook exercises, developing their awareness of composition, scale and proportion. The children then explored the work of famous artists such as David Hockney and Paul Nash to see how they used perspective in their work. The children also developed their understanding of colour theory, learning about analogous colours on the colour wheel and the relationship between colour and perspective.

The children's final piece was a two-point perspective cube painted on canvas paper in their chosen analogous colours.
