Polar Regions – National Maritime Museum

Year 4 – Spring 1

To consolidate Year 4's learning on their Humanities topic 'Polar Regions', we took a trip to the National Maritime Museum to find out more about these incredible areas of the world. In the exhibition, there were also a number of different artefacts from Shackleton's expedition to Antarctica, also our topic for our English writing this half term. The children studied artefacts, completing questions and treasure hunts for facts to see if they would be able to survive the treacherous conditions of the Arctic, as true adventurers!

My favourite part of our trip was following the journey of Shackleton to Antarctica on the giant map before we entered the exhibit!
